FERMENT IN A PATER SON CHURCH.

MARD NAMES CAST ABOUT IN A MEETING OF DEACONS-MR. GUIREY'S COUNTER-CHARGE.

DEACONS—MR. GUIRRY'S COUNTER-CHARGE.

The Willis Street Baptist Church is famed among churches in Paterson, N. J., for the number and high temperature of the quarrels that have convulsed the congregation from time to time. It was this church which acquired some notoriety a number of years ago by an utterance of Thomas Clements, now dead, in a prayer-meeting about the moral of the story of Joseph. About two years ago the Rev. George Guirey assumed the pastorate, and since his accession the church has kept up its reputation as good fighting ground. Mr. Guirey is a young man, small in stature, with a rather handsome face and insunating address. Among the members of the church most active in securing the services of the good-looking and biand clergyman was Deacon Bradbury. The deacon died several months ago, and Mr. Guirey preached his funeral sermon, warmly eulogizing the departed brother. Mr. Guirey then went to board with the deacon's widow, and not long after that trouble began to develop, which culminated on Wednesday night of this week in the liveliest meeting of an ecclesiastical body that has ever taken place in Paterson. The session lasted until after 1 o'clock yesterday morring. Andit has transpired that fits were shaken at the Rev. George Guirey, and that he was to his face called a hiar and a hypocrite, and by at least one excited deacon a "blank liar." before the stormy sitting of the deacons of the church had finished hearing testimony regarding the charges which Deacon Bradbury's widow had brought against her pastor.

The Incetting was held at the home of Deacon Robert Bustard, a Republican Alderman, presided, and Deacons Smith, Kriger, Van Riper, Warden and England helped him sift the charges. The accusation made by Mrs. Bradbury was that Mr. Guirey had been telling scandalous stories about her. Against this, the pastor adduced evidence which made the trial practically a trial of Mrs. Bradbury as well as of the pastor.

The story told on the part of Mr. Guirey, as developed in the evidence at Deacon

It was her private family affair. Mrs. Downie then told a story of a valentine. She said that after Mrs. Guirey had arrived in Paterson a handsone valentine was brought to the cuirey home by a son from the bury and placed under the was signed with Mrs. Bradbury's na defended was signed with Mrs. Guirey, who had been troubled enough already and might be made to suffer. After a while, however, Mr. Guirey learned of the scandalous stories that Mrs. Bradbury had been circulating about his wife, and he showed the valentine and the signature to her. Mrs. Guirey cerey where," and fell to the floor in a swoon. Sho took to her bed and stayed there the gave her. Mrs. Bradbury's story as she gave it to the decons was that Mr. Guirey, during his stay at her house, before Mrs. Guirey, during his stay at her house, before Mrs. Guirey, during his stay at her house, before Mrs. Guirey, during his stay at her house, before Mrs. Guirey, during his stay at her house, before Mrs. Bradbury in conditions of any think the had been narried to his wife in Oakland, Cal., and subsequently discovered that the quieted down and went to Mrs. Guirey, informing him that his wife had arrived in New-York. Mr. Guirey who had several times in the curse of the spot had the wife and the spot had been summarily suppressed by the deacons, are that the testimony of the witnesses was all in, Mr. Guirey, who had several times in the curse of the short of the substantial of the second drive of the salessing here of the curse

Mr. Guirey had an address all written out arguing his side of the case, but the deacons would not let him read it, and during his statement he was frequently interrupted with cases of "You lie, you hypocrite," from other witnesses in the room.

The deacons will hold another meeting before making up their verdict. Mr. Guirey's adherents are confident that Mrs. Bradbury will be read out of the church, and the widow's friends are equally confident that the pastor will be deposed.

THE COMMERCIAL STRIKE ENDED.

THE COMMERCIAL STRIKE ENDED.

The publishers of The Commercial advertiser were able to get out their several editions yesterday afternoon at the usual hours, and without any serious difficulty. The practical result of the strike of the printers being the emancipation of the paper, Mr. Sedley, the Editor, said, from the control, actual or attempted, of the Typographical Union. As to the manner in which the vacant places in the composing room had been filled, Mr. Sedley said: "It is true that an advertisement calling for compositors was inserted in one or more out of town papers, but this was only one among several expedients to which the publishers felt justified in resorting to provide for the possible but not desired defection of the compositors formerly in the employ of the paper. It is not the intention of the gentlemen in charge of The Commercial Advertiser to permit its direction to be assumed by any other person or persons, whether such persons be in or out of their employment." Mr. Sedley concluded by saying that they had succeeded in securing a good class of compositors and had been favored with more applicants for work than they could employ. The work is new to the whole body of men now at the cases and it is likely that the proprietors will have to overcome some slight embarrassments for several days, but they are fully satisfied with the existing situation.

ARRANGING A FOUNDRY'S TROUBLES.

An adjourned meeting of the creditors of the West Point Foundry Association was held yesterday to receive the report of the committee appointed on Tuesday to examine into the condition of the concern. The committee found assets in excess of liabilities, and recommended an extension of obligations to 9, 12, 15 and 18 months from September 1, provided 80 per cent of the creditors greent who were a majority of the whole, and all who had authority to do so signed the arrangement. Cries of "murder" were passed along Delanceyst. at midnight, on Wednesday might, and reached the Thirteenth Precinct Police Station as the patrolmen were changing their watch. Several policemen went to the liquor store at No. 325 Delancey-st., in front of which lay the body of John Heil, age twenty-four, the only son of a carman at No.
72 Goerck-st. They learned that he had been killed by Francis McLaughlin, a young ruffian well known in the neighborhood, who had escaped. The body of the murdered man was placed on astretcher and carried to the police station. Several witnesses of the murdered ware persuaded to go to the station and give their addresses. They were murder was entirely unprovoked.

Young Heil, who dreve a cart for his father, was a penceable, steady, young man. He was unable to sleep on account of the heat on Wednesday night, and about midnight he went out in front of his father's stable to rest. McLaughlin passed along the street and began to rail at Heil. There had been ill-feeling between them for some time although they were playmates from childhood.

been for some years members of a band of young thieves and loaders, known as the "Short-tail gang." His brother is an ex-convict already, having served a term for robbery. Neighbors said yesterday that the animosity against Heil was caused by his refusal to "join the gag." Others said that McLaughlin had a grudge against Heil on account of a young woman. Heil had been forced into more than one fight with the

INCOHERENT TALK AND INSANITY.

The examination as to the sanity of William C. Rhinelander was continued in Part I. of the General Sessions yesterday, before Commissioners Paterson, Nolan and Dr. Detmold. Ex.Judge Curtis subjected Dr. Hamilton to a searching cross-examination upon the hypothetical question propounded by Mr. Bowers. In speaking of the three contradictory statements of Rhinelander about the shooting, ex.Judge Curtis asked:

Are you conscious that you have given two answers that, unexplained, would indicate mental unsoundness on your part!

The witness—I am not here to testify about myself.

Dr. Hamilton was questioned about his testimony in the case of Henry Prouse Cooper, and asked if he did not testify that he was the victim of incurable paresis. He replied in the affirmative.

DIFFERENT VIEWS OF A STRIKE.

The strike of the bricklayers and laborers for nine hours as a day's work is viewed differently by the unions and by the Boss Builders' Association. The Bricklayers' Union asserts that it has less than 150 men out of employment, that it has less than 150 men out of employment, that this is no more than are asually ant at this season, and that, practically, the strike is over. For the support of the men on strike $700 has been received from the Plasterers' Union, $500 from Bricklayers' Union No. 3 of Newark, with a promise of $100 weekly while the strike lasts; $300 from Bricklayers' Union No. 1, of Brooklyn, and $50 from the Hod Hoisting Engineers. A few non union men who have been working for Sinclair & Wells joined the union yesterday. The laborers and stone masons say that their men are now nearly all at work. An exeursion of the strikers to Greenwood Lake is talked of. Secretary Wells, of the Boss Builders' Union, says that nearly all the members of the association have stood firmly by their determination not to yield to the demands of the men, and that a number of them have succeeded in getting sufficient men to attend to their most urgent work.

The following is a list of the bosses who have not granted the demands of the men; John J. Incker, D. & E. Herbert, George W. Lithgrove, Robinson & Wallace, W. C. Manna & Son, Samuel Lowden, D. C. ROBBED AT THE MUZZLE OF A REVOLVER.

For over a week the school-ship St. Mary's has been at anchor in the harber off Gien Cove, L. I. Among the apprentice boys is S. Kari, a Japanese Prince, seventeen years old. On Tuesday he went ashore, and after making a few purchases went to the shore to return to the ship. The boat had gone, and he bargained with John Miller to row him to the ship for $1. When about 500 yards from shore Miller dropped the oars and, drawing a pistol, put the muzzle to Kari's head and demanded his watch and money under pain of instant death. Kari delivered up his watch and chain, valued at $500, and $7 in money, and Miller again took up the oars, laid the pistol on the seat beside him and pulled to the shore, where he got out and told Kari that he might row himself to the vessel. Kari did so, and informed the Lieutenant of his experience. The Lieutenant, with Kari and several others, returned to the shore, where they obtained the services of a constable, and found Miller, who was identified. On Wednesday he pleaded not guilty, but asked that some witnesses that he wished be sent for, and the officer was instructed to go after them, and went away, leaving Miller in the court-room, A few moments later Miller slipped out of the room, but was arrested again in the evening.

son wants to be able to show what the result would be were it to be produced. Hence the fact that for two hours Mr. Sarony strove to make the fifteen fretful children keep still in detachments with a thermometer registering 90°. He did it, however, and several picturesque groups were the result. What they all mean is an enigma which the production of the play only can solve. In one group a little mite is lying on a heap of straw, with sunken checks, which tell of filiness. Little Hijou Fernandez sits in a barrel at her side, and Little Gracie, known to "Mar Blossom" audiences, gazes at the sufferer with a pitcous look. Mr. Sarony produced the sunken checks by a skilfuily-applied touch of charcoal on the rosy face of the healthy looking little sufferer. This was too much for the gravity of Gracie, for as soon as she was properly posed, she caught sight of what she called the "thmudges" and exploided into hilarity. The sufferer followed suit, and for half an hour there was an almost continuous laughtag chorus. Patience, however, and sarony combined triamphed, and the result will doubtless soon be on exhibition.

WHY PRESIDENT DODD SIGNED A RECEIPT.

VISH & HATCH'S RELATIONS WITH THE NEWARK SAVINGS INSTITUTION.

In the Vice Chancellor's Court at Newark, in the proceedings for contempt against the president and managers of the Newark Savings Institution, President Dodd was examined by his counsel, Thomas N. McCarter, yesterday. Within the first week of his term as president, in 1871, he said, he first learned of transactions pending between the bank and Fisk & Haten, involving $936,000. The bank had $1,000,000 invested in Western Pacific and as that road was far away it was thought good policy to invest this million. In Chesapeake and Ohio, which was newer home. The transfer was made with the knowledge and consent of the entire board of managers. In relation to the board the vanits of Fisk & Hatch the witness stated that the bonds were not in the possession of Fisk & Hatch. It was supposed that they were in the box and the vanits of Fisk & Hatch they were in the box of the bank. There was no other arrangement than that they should be registered in the name of the bank. There was no arrangement between the witness and Fisk & Hatch relative to the bank's funds, either direct or indirect, and witness had frequently converse with Fisk & Hatch would use the order for any other purpose than the box in the firm's vault. Mr. Fisk familiarly referred to them as "Uncle Daniel's bonds." Fisk & Hatch never asked for a loan of bonds for trading capital.

The witness was asked why the bonds of the bank were kept in the vault of Fisk & Hatch. He replied that there was a large amount in the bank's vaults and it was thought best to have some of it manother safe depository. It was also considered that as there were dealings at all times in these bonds. It would be best to have them conveniently placed for that purpose, and save the worry and anxiety of transporting them. In January, 1883, the bank had a deposit of $1,700,000 with Fisk & Hatch to bank had a deposit of $1,700,000 with Fisk & Hatch to be bonds of the institution to assist them in their present business.

Judge Foraker, of Ohio—I nave read the dreary school-boy platitudes when compose Cleveland's letter of acceptance. It would be an excellent idea, I think, for THE TRIBUNE to print it, double-leaded, every day till after the election without a word of comment. It would be a good calpaign document for the Republicans.

Major McKniley, of Ohio—An Ohio Democrat said the best thing which I have yet heard about Cleveland's letter. He was no expecting it so soon, and when it appeared it was a deep disappointment to my Democratic brother. Said he: "Major McKniley, there must be some mistake about this letter. I think it is a forgery. The Democratic candidate for the effice of President of the Uniced States would never write so weak an epistic as this." I thought it a pretty sharp comment, coming as it did, in good faith, from an eight Democrat.

RABBI--HIS LAST WORDS.

1, 1924. The proposals aggregated $2,766,000, and the bonds were disposed of at the following rates: $15,000 at $105: $100,000 at $105 17; $100,000 at $105 18; $300,000 at $104 25, and $34,000 at $104 11.

PICTURESQUE GROUPS OF CHILDREN.

Sarony's studio partook more of the nature of a kindergation yesterday morning than of a staid photographen's operating room. Fifteen small onliden of assorted ages and sizes tumble about the floor, or retreated boshfully into corners with their fingers coyly seeking the corners of their mouths. Fifteen mothers at on chairs or stosis, or other wise disposed of themselves, as they kept a sharp watch upon the vagaries of their young ones. The youngaters were assembled to help compose picturesque groups which, when transferred by the aid of the country and Mr. Sarony to seducitive il hographs, shall help of the the acting variant the bosous of those who you'm a see fore Davidson's new play. The new play has a tyet seed produced, but Mr. David-from newspapers, and on the fly-leaf was written:

"Please send a telegraph to Chicago. I am lost."
There was also a scrap of paper containing writing as follows:
"My name is Sam Lavner. I just ran away from murderers. If I die please send my body to my home in Chicago, Ill., No. 531 Canalist, to L. Lapkowich. I am a Hebrew. Please send a letter to my friend to Chicago to Mr. L. Lapkowich.

Br. J. M. R. Gedney, of Little Falls, was out driving on Wednesday evening and saw a man, whom he identified as Mr. Lavner, in company with another man, the latter in his shire-sleeves, near the bridge. Persons inving in the neighborhood of Beatty's Mills say that they heard a pistol shot about 12:30 a. m. yesterdsy. Coroner Newcombe, of Paterson, will hold an inquest this afternoon.

STARVING HIS WIFE AND CHILD.

Officer Rendick, of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, learned on Monday that there existed suffering and destitution in the family of Bernard Hughes, a butcher, at No. 261 Seventh-st., Brooklyn. With Poinceman Young, of the Fourth Street Poince Station, he visited the place, and found a pitiful condition of things. Hughes kept a greery store and butcher shop on the ground floor of the place. In a narrow and filthy room up-stairs his wife, a woman of thirty-five, was discovered seated in a rocking-chair, clothed with rags and suffering from lack of food. She was reduced by hunger to a mere skeleton, while her garments were unclean and tattered. Her emainted ten-months-oid child was sitting near. "Thank God," exclaimed the woman, "that some one has come to resome me and my child. Let me go to a hospital before I die." In addition to her suffering from hunger, the unfortunate woman was afflicted with chronic rheumatism. Officer Rendick, of the Society for the Preven-matism.

The officers set about investigating the case. The officers set about investigating the case. The neighbors told a long story of marital cruelty. They asserted that Hughes had undertaken to deliberately starve his wife and child to death. He would leave them for days without food, and when kind-hearted women, who knew the circumstances of the case, took Mrs. Hughes the necessaries of life he would interfere and tell them not to interfere in his affairs. Some of the women would smuggle bread to the sick woman by lifting it to the second-story window with a broom-handle. The statements of the neighbors were corroborated by Mrs. Hughes. She said that her husband had been the cause of their two older children, girls of sixteen and eighteen, running away. Three small boys who remained were neglected and badly trented, but managed to get a living in the streets.

A warrant was issued by Justice Nacher, and yesterday Hughes was arrested and held by him in $500 bonds. His wite and child were cared for by the authorities. Hughes said that his wife had been driven insane through a love of liquor and stated that his neighbors were prejudiced against him.

them conveniently placed for that purpose, and save the worry and anxiety of transporting them. In January, 1883, the bank had a deposit of $1,700,000 with Fisk & Hatch, secured by Government bonds. He never made any arrangement with Fisk & Hatch that they should use the bonds of the institution to assist them in their present business.

In reply to a question President Dodd described his visit to the office of Fisk & Hatch on the day of their failure last May. He had been sent for by Mr. hatch and did not anspect the condition of things. He was thunderstruck. He asked for the books and securities, and was told there were bonds enough to secure his claim. Young Mr. Fisk brought in the bonds, and they were placed in statches, and he wrote the receipt for them at the suggestion of Mr. Hatch. He receipted for over $3,000,000 of securities. "There was," said that receipt under the impression that if I dun't I would not be allowed to bring the securities away."

Ex. Judge Stevens, of counsei for the depositors, began the cross-examination of Mr. Dodd. The question was asked why, on March 27, 1884, Mr. Dodd called in the Harriman loan of $800,000, and missing the depositors hearing the agency of the same loan was asked him to take the same loan my second that the bank had so much money he didn't know what to do with it. The witness admitted in reply that it was for the purpose of getting non-taxable securities.

In a recent exhibition of statuary in New-York, there was a narrie group representing Jacob wrestling with the angel of a small pelectal. An elegantly crossed man and his wife looked at it for some time, and finally she asked:

"Why is he traing to turk with angel off !"
"Because there is not room enough up there for both of them. He doesn't like to be crowded."

the weigher rings a signal to the driver—one bell means all signt; two bells, throw coal off; there bells, put more coal on. A new clerk had not been placed in the office, and, floding that the "ton" weight don't 1,100 pounds, he rang the bell three times. The driver of the coal-eart fell dead of the shock, and the horse, an animal which had been in the business seventeen years, was as startled at the unaccustomed sound that he ran away, killing a prominent of treen and fatally influencing seven camidates for the strievalty. The sid event has east a gloom over the community. The clerk has been discharged.
